Powell Bolts, Pledges Support to Ike

Criticizes Stevenson
On Rights
TV Panel to Quiz
President Tonight

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower, pictured as highly pleased by support from a Negro Democrat in Congress, makes another nationwide bid for votes on television and radio tonight.

Rep. Powell (D-NY) expressed hope today of swinging 5 per cent of the Negro and "liberal Democratic" vote in key northern states to President Eisenhower this year.

Names Main Targets

Powell, one of three Negro members of Congress, named as his main targets the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California. All have sizable blocks of electoral votes.

Small vote margins have sometimes decided political races in these states in the past, Powell said in an interview.

Powell announced after a White House visit yesterday that he will support Eisenhower for re-election and will form a national organization to campaign for him. In 1952 Powell backed the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson.

There was no immediate comment from Stevenson on Powell's switch.

100 to Pose Questions

This latest appeal (9 p. m., EDT, NBC network) is Eisenhower's re-election campaign will be in a novel form. White House news secretary James C. Hagerty describes it as an "important, entirely unheated press conference" where about 100 "cross section Americans" will put questions to Eisenhower on various issues.

The panelists to take part have been invited to Washington from all areas of the country by the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee, an organization whose primary objective is to woo the votes of independents and dissatisfied Democrats.

"I think the President probably has never met more than one or two of the 100 or so people who will be questioning him, and we won't know in advance what they are going to ask," Hagerty said.

Backed Adlai in '52

As Eisenhower awaited the quiz, an aide described him as highly pleased by the announced decision of Rep. Powell Jr. to support Eisenhower and to form a national organization to work for his re-election.

Powell, who backed Democrat Adlai Stevenson for the presidency in 1952, said after conferring with Eisenhower yesterday that Stevenson this year has "snubbed the whole liberal group—Republican and Democrats" on the civil rights issue.

On the other hand, Powell said, during the administration's first two years in office Eisenhower made "the greatest contribution in the field of civil liberties of any President in history."

Jenner in Agreement

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Jenner (Ind.) said Eisenhower was "accurate" in telling a news conference yesterday that Jenner and GOP Sens. McCarthy (Wis.) and Malone (Nev.) do not agree with him in many things. The President added "I can't look . . . to them for help" in trying to put over a legislative program "for the good of the country."

Eisenhower's comment was based on a magazine article by Paul Hoffman, former foreign aid administrator, who wrote that the three "have no place in the new Republican party." None of the three is up for reelection this year.

Differences Noted

Jenner said that he and the two other senators "are Republicans who do not go along with him (Eisenhower) on some things," and added:

"I support the President when I think he is right and I don't when I think he is wrong."

The Indiana lawmaker said he has disagreed with Eisenhower on (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

Customers Out
Early for Sale

Clear, crisp weather greeted the opening day of the Kingston "Discovery Days Sale" this morning and there were crowds in the shopping areas early.

At one store where a early sale bargain was being offered there were approximately fifty people waiting when the store opened.

The sale which is sponsored by the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, will be continued Saturday. "Discovery Days Sale," honoring Columbus is one of a series of special promotion sales to be held during the year, a member of the association said today.

"We want to demonstrate to the people of this area that Kingston merchants have the merchandise, sell at fair prices and can supply local needs," an officer of the association said.

Stores will remain open until 9 p. m. today and close at the usual hour, 5 p. m. on Saturday.

France May Quit
Waterway Talks

United Nations, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Both Egypt and Britain were reported unofficially today to have made conciliatory moves in private talks here on the Suez Canal dispute. But France seemed on the point of breaking off the discussions.

The British, French and Egyptian foreign ministers this morning (9:30 a. m. EST) were to hold their fifth private meeting on the canal crisis with UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, president of the UN Security Council, said that 11-nation body would hold a private session on the canal controversy this afternoon (3 or 4 p. m. EST) and perhaps a public session tomorrow.

Cooperation Seen

A usually well informed diplomat said that in the talks so far Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi had agreed Egypt would cooperate in some respects with the Suez Canal Users' Assn. (SCUA) set up by the second London Set conference.

The same diplomat, who asked not to be identified, said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had dropped Britain's insistence on international operation of the canal and had agreed to Egyptian operation provided international safeguards were set up to guarantee freedom of navigation through the waterway, necessary improvements and reasonable tolls.

Powell, who backed Democrat Adlai Stevenson for the presidency in 1952, said after conferring with Eisenhower yesterday that Stevenson this year has "snubbed the whole liberal group—Republican and Democrats" on the civil rights issue.

On the other hand, Powell said, during the administration's first two years in office Eisenhower made "the greatest contribution in the field of civil liberties of any President in history."

How Planning Thwarts
Expansion Ills Told
At Parley in Ulster

Good planning and zoning help to overcome community "growing pains," and thwart increased tax rates, Frederick P. Clark, planning consultant for the town of Ulster, told a meeting of the Town of Ulster Republican Club last night.

The meeting, which was held at the new Lake Katrine School, was open to the public and was attended by approximately 100 persons, including Mayor Frederick H. Stang.

Mr. Clark, of Clark Associates, Rye, is a native of Tillson, a graduate of Kingston High School, and has a national reputation in the field of city planning.

Explains All Phases

He described the function, applicability and uses of a town development plan.

Mr. Clark pointed out that there has been a great interest in planning and zoning all over the country, "and the interest exhibited here is even greater than in other areas with which I am familiar."

Reasons Listed

He listed these reasons for the increased interest in planning and zoning: 1) Taxes and cost, 2) More citizen interest in the attractiveness of a community, and 3) Realization that planning and zoning of a community is now possible.

Community residents now know that they can't afford to make mistakes in planning, Mr. Clark said, and it is less expensive to make mistakes on paper in planning than to try to correct them after a project is completed.

He credited a shorter work week, more vacation time and increased leisure hours as the reasons for more interest in "community attractiveness." With increased time spent at home, Mr. Clark said, community residents are now more aware and interested in a better community.

Residents also know that within the past five or 10 years "they are now able to decide the type of community they want through planning effected by local ordinances."

Problems Discussed

Mr. Clark described the mechanics of planning and showed slides to illustrate some of the problems which confront growing communities. He listed these as poor street layout, drainage, sanitation, crowding of houses, depreciation of residential values through indiscriminate location of business, and lack of recreational facilities.

"If you want to avoid problems and serious mistakes, good planning and zoning help to overcome community growing pains," Mr. Clark said. He acknowledged that all mistakes could not be avoided but planning helps to overcome many and reduce the seriousness of others.

Keeps Taxes Down

Mr. Clark also indicated that planning and zoning help to prevent expenses which increase the tax rate of a community "higher than it should be."

He suggested town supervisors in the area band together and have introduced in the state legislature a bill to have new homes assessed at the time of occupancy so that new homeowners "would start contributing to the expenses of a community at the time they occupy the houses."

He noted that under present assessment legislation it is possible for a homeowner to go several months before he starts contributing taxes to his community.

Mr. Clark endorsed metropolitan planning which was proposed Wednesday evening at a meeting in the Kingston city hall (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Radar, Special MV Dept. Urged

Suggestions Given
For Safer State Roads

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Extensive use of radar and establishment of a separate motor vehicle department have been recommended to Gov. Harriman as part of a highway safety program for New York state, it was revealed today.

The recommendations were contained in a report, made public by the governor's office, on a recent study of Connecticut's successful program for cutting down traffic accidents.

Richard I. Kahl of Fresh Meadows, former research director for New York's joint legislative committee on motor vehicle problems, made the study at Harriman's suggestion.

Points Suggested

On the basis of Connecticut's experience, Kahl said, New York state would:

1. Set up a new department of motor vehicles to serve as a nerve center for a stepped up highway safety program.
2. Increase police enforcement activities and use radar "extensively" in speed zones established by the state traffic commission.
3. See to it that all speed limits throughout the state are "realistic and reasonable."
4. Revise its point system for suspension of driver licenses.
5. Consider suspending driver's licenses after two speeding convictions, instead of—at present—three convictions.
6. Treat convictions in Connecticut and other states the same as convictions in New York.

Governor Makes Study

Kahl did not recommend that New York adopt Connecticut's "crackdown" practice of suspending licenses automatically after one speeding conviction.

The governor's office said Harriman was studying the report.

Kahl asserted that the state of Connecticut, winner of six grand awards in the national traffic safety contest in the last 15 years, had compiled an "outstanding record" of highway safety.

His report analyzed the neighbor state's governmental machinery concerned with traffic safety and selected several facets that he said New York might emulate.

Safety Comes First

Kahl said the most important thing he learned from his Connecticut study was the need to "build an administrative machinery capable of conducting a continuing effective program for traffic safety."

"This must come first," he asserted, "and only then should we give emphasis to any particular detail of the program."

In this connection, Kahl recommended establishing a separate department of motor vehicles, a move that has been in the talking stage in Albany for several years. The current motor vehicle bureau is an arm of the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

Kahl said a new department should be headed by the motor vehicle commissioner, should not be subject to the control of a revenue department and should not "be burdened with political patronage appointees."

Would Keep Driver File

Within such a department, Kahl said, should be established a "driver license" division organized along the "most modern concepts." The division would be charged with issuing licenses, keeping a complete active file on each driver and (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

And Javits

Active in State

George E. Yerry Jr., president of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, AFL, of this city was named to the executive board of the "Labor Committee for Eisenhower and Javits" movement which was initiated Thursday at a meeting held in the Commodore Hotel in New York city.

Richard E. Livingston of Buffalo, general representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, was chosen committee chairman.

Reward for Friends

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who attended the meeting, said he was delighted at the "unanimous and enthusiastic support" for the President and Mr. Javits.

Livingston when selected as committee chairman said the committee's "support of President Eisenhower and Jack Javits, is in keeping with the best traditions of the labor movement to reward our friends with political support."

Others Attending

Others from this area attending the meeting were George W. Race, Hurley, president of Carpenters Local 251; Augustus Parker, Kingston, business agent, Laborers Local 17; Hyman Zamansky, Liberty, business agent for Hotelworkers Local 666; Frank Bell, Hudson, business agent for Local 1075; Carpenters, George Nagy, business agent for Bricklayers Local 14, was not present but gave his endorsement to the move as did Joseph Rodden of Kingston; president of the Kingston Metal Trades Council.

Others named to the executive board with Mr. Yerry were Robert Greene of the Electrical Workers, secretary; William Ahearn of the Painters' Union; John Sinclair, president of the Westchester Building Trades Council; Joseph Zapp of the Almagamated Meat Cutters and Robert F. Kelley of the Uniformed Fire Fighters.

Ike Picks Thruway Chairman

Tallamy Will Head Federal Road Construction Program

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today picked Burton D. Tallamy of New York to head the government's new 33-billion-dollar highway construction program.

Tallamy is chairman of the New York State Thruway Authority.

On Job Next Year

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Tallamy will take over the job early next year.

Meanwhile, it will be filled on an interim basis by John A.

Majority Backs
Ike: Martin

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin (Mass.), just back from a cross country campaign tour, told President Eisenhower today "there is no question that a majority of the people" favor his re-election.

And two leaders of the Virginia Democrats for Eisenhower organization said they told the President the outlook in that state is "very very favorable and we expect to carry Virginia again" for Eisenhower.

Virginia, normally Democratic, was one of the four southern states Eisenhower carried in 1952.

Martin told a White House news conference after conferring with the President that the big job for the Republicans is to get out the vote Nov. 6.

Voters Have Last
Chance to Sign
Today, Saturday

Today and Saturday are the last for registration, and those in Kingston who do not go to the polls cannot vote on Election Day.

The polls in the city's 13 wards are open tonight until 10 o'clock.

Saturday they will open at 7 a. m. and close at 10 p. m.

Saturday is also the last registration day in towns of the county, from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Town residents who have not voted in several years are advised to see that their names are on the rolls. This may be done by calling at the polling place, checking with the election inspector or contacting party committee.

In the city personal registration is required for every election, so residents must go to the polls or lose their votes.

Last week, in two days of registration, 7,664 signed up in Kingston. In the last presidential year of 1952, the first two days of registration brought out 7,961.

SOS Calls
Spur Hunt
For Plane

Signals May Come
From Life Rafts

Radio distress signals coming from the Atlantic north of the Azores spurred hope today for survivors of a giant transport plane missing with 59 U. S. servicemen aboard, including two from upstate New York.

Lincoln, Neb., air force base listed Airman Third Class Gerald A. Hummel, 21, of Grandview avenue, Cobleskill, and Airman Second Class Ralph M. Pacelli, 21, of 25-5 Albany street, Schenectady, among the passengers on the plane which vanished yesterday.

Airman Hummel joined the air force in 1955 following high school graduation and Pacelli is a two-year veteran of the air force.

Planes Hear Messages

The Associated Press reported the U. S. Air Force ordered an all-out aerial search for the source of the message, heard by at least five transatlantic airliners last night and the Air Force Base at Lajes, in the Azores.

It was believed the string of SOS signals might be coming from portable transmitters on rubber life rafts carried by the missing C118 Lifemaster of the U. S. Military Air Transport Service.

By 7:30 a. m. (4:40 a. m. EST) 35 planes from far flung bases were combing the area. None reported finding anything.

Meanwhile, two Pan American World Airways pilots who reported hearing what they thought were distress signals said upon reaching New York that they had been informed the signals came from land stations sending out alerts about the missing craft.

The air force estimated the signals were coming from a point approximately 150 miles north of the Azores.

Visibility is 10 Miles

"They appear to be similar to the type of signal transmitted from U. S. survival equipment," an announcement said, adding that the visibility in the area was 10 miles.

The transport vanished Wednesday night on a flight from the air base at Lakenheath, England, to the Azores, en route to the United States. Aboard were 50 air force men returning to their Lincoln, Neb., base and the transport's crew of 9 navy men.

800 Miles Beyond Position

The position from which it was estimated the SOS signals came was more than 800 miles beyond the missing plane's last position report. But an air force spokesman said the aircraft could have lost radio contact with the ocean control tower at Shannon Airport in Ireland and flown on toward its destination before going down.

"We would be surprised to find it so close to the Azores, but it's possible," the spokesman added.

Normally the plane should have been in hourly contact with Shannon or the Lajes base.

The Lifemaster carried four life rafts, each equipped with a portable transmitter and having room for 20 men.

State Aid Is Authorized
For Free Salk to Adults

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Gov. Harriman has authorized the state health commissioner to furnish state aid to local governments that wish to provide free Salk anti-polio vaccine to all adult residents.

Adults up to now have been able to obtain the vaccine only through commercial channels. Persons under age 20 and pregnant women have been eligible for free vaccine.

Rioting first began as an anti-Red demonstration by refugees sympathetic to the Chinese Nationalists. They were protesting removal of Chinese flags from housing development on Nationalist China's anniversary of Sun Yat Sen's Chinese Republic. At least six firemen were injured. ### SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

"Better keep out of his way—he's just learning to drive!"

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 12—Although I am not, and never have been, opposed to Unionism as such, I must take up the cudgel against the recently merged AFL-CIO's forthcoming drive for a four-day week rather than increased wages, as announced by George Meany, president. For years, Labor has striven not only for higher wages and more fringe benefits; but also for shorter hours. Today's standard 40-hour week is a far cry from the conditions that prevailed not so very many years ago, when the 12-hour day was common practice, six days a week. Those back-breaking, soul-destroying times are gone for the U. S., and I am sure that no one regrets their disappearance. But how far can the pendulum, with safety, now swing in this new direction? I well realize that, as a result of our unprecedented technological and industrial development, it is no longer necessary for men to work the interminable hours of yesteryear in order to produce sufficient goods to meet modern day requirements. But this change must continue to come slowly.

An Ill-Timed Move

Of course, if Labor's drive for a temporary shorter-work week had been launched back in the depression days of the early "thirties," I would have felt different about it. At that time millions of unemployed were walking the streets looking for jobs. If the working hours of all who then had jobs had been reduced, there could have been jobs for everybody. But what might have been right then, as a temporary expedient, could be seriously detrimental today to the welfare of all our people.

Since our economy is a vibrant and rapidly growing one I can see great potential danger in producing less during an impending greater overall demand. Workers would have to produce 20 per cent more during the four work days to compensate for the lost fifth day. Unless further automation could make up the difference, they would merely be holding their own as far as production is concerned, rather than increasing it to meet expanding requirements. Increased use of automation is a slow and expensive development. It cannot happen in four years or eight years.

We are living in prosperous times. Our people never had it so good. We are practically fully employed at high wages; our purchasing power is enormous and our every-day living needs tremendous. To regard production under such circumstances would be little short of a crime—a move contrary to that which has made America great. All material prosperity stems from increased character and production. "More things for better people at right prices" is a key to our continued economic well-being.

Increase Production

I forecast that our No. 1 Public Enemy continues to be the threat of further inflation over the longer term. Today's 52-cent dollar is one of the chief reasons why we must pay around $3,000 for an automobile that only a few years ago cost about one-third as much. The best way to lick further inflation or to forestall it is by increasing production, not by producing less. Inflation is the result of an unbalanced ratio between output and consumption. We can boost consumption by intensifying and improving advertising and selling efforts, but there is no way to compensate for lost output. This will be of great importance if we are faced with more competition from foreign goods.

Decreased production is a direct threat to Mr. and Mrs. Consumer. It means fewer goods and higher prices. The proposed shorter work week is ill-timed and impractical, under present conditions. We cannot remain prosperous by producing less, but only by producing more. Ten years from now, further machinery developments should give us a four-day week; but it cannot safely come at once.

Seals Workers To Be Named Soon by Russell

Working committees for the 50th annual Christmas Seals sale of the Ulster County TB and Health Association will be named soon by Robert S. Russell, county chairman.

The campaign will open November 15 and continues through December. Calling for increased efforts to rally Ulster county citizens to the fight against TB, Mr. Russell said, "In this first half century of the Christmas Seals Sale, the combined efforts of the American people have brought great progress. Fewer people every year die of TB, but we have made less progress in preventing people from catching the disease. No one should suffer the tragic effects of a disease which can be prevented."

Will Take 50 Years In South, Editor Says

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—A Mississippi newspaper editor and publisher predicts that at least 50 years will be needed to "meaningfully integrate" the south as long as numerical pressure and a "cultural gap" exists between the races.

Hodding Carter, Pulitzer Prize winning editor of the Greenville, Miss., Delta Times, said last night in a Cornell University lecture that he believed the solution to integration was "the relieving of numerical and economic pressures" in the south, where, he said, Negroes number 30 per cent of the population. Helpful, not compulsory, action from government, state or federal, could aim to relocate the Negro out of the south, Carter said.

WALL STREET

The New Dealers termed Wall Street a "den of iniquity." For vote-getting purposes, they vilified all the men conducting the Competitive System.

So started a relentless war of words, such as "selfish individualism"; "wolves of Wall Street"; "entrenched special interests"; "sinister forces of wealth"; "economic royalists"; "privileged princes of greed"; "money changers in the temple," etc.

Against these charges, only a few of the trustees, administrators and guardians of the people's savings said anything in rebuttal. There were some bad men in Wall Street, just as there are bad men on Main Street. Read the headlines of crime.

The percentage of good and bad is about the same on all streets. And the good outnumber the bad everywhere. They condemned Wall Street as a "den of iniquity."

It is one thing to prove some businessmen as bad. It is another thing to give business, itself, a bad name. Do you realize that the last four years are the only years since 1932 when we have had prosperity and jobs without war or the effort to make up shortages caused by war?

The chief reason for this is that the Administration has recognized that there are good men in business and has given them the chance to prove the good that good men can do.

Neighbor, do you want another period of warfare between Government and Business?

Nina Shows Up

London, Oct. 12 (AP)—Nina Ponomareva, the Soviet Union's missing woman discus champion, turned up in court today unexpectedly to face a charge of shoplifting five cheap hats. The hefty Soviet athlete had been missing since Aug. 29 when she failed to appear in court to face the shop lifting charge. Presumably she was hiding out in the Soviet embassy. On Aug. 28 she was arrested and charged with stealing five frilly hats worth less than $5 from a department store. The Russians charged the British with a "dirty provocation" and withdrew their team from the British-Soviet track meet Nina had come to compete in.

FAITH IN EISENHOWER

In the election of 1952, the American voters bought Dwight D. Eisenhower on faith. They had faith that he might build a durable peace. They voted for him because they thought he was best equipped to cope with the Russians. They thought he might possibly avert a hideous World War 3.

We believe that the same things hold true in the minds of the voters today. And, of course they are right. As President Eisenhower has remarked almost every problem we have is residual to the question of peace. The taxes we pay, the schools and highways and other public works we can build, almost every department of our social and political life is dependent on this issue of peace.

President Eisenhower ended the Korean War within six months after taking office, as promised. He warned the Reds off Formosa in language they clearly understood and the Republican Congress vigorously supported him.

Under his administration, America stayed out of the Indochina fighting despite many pleas and provocations and helped settle it by peaceful means. And since President Eisenhower took over not one inch of territory has been gained by the Soviets anywhere.

At the same time the Eisenhower Administration has moved to build a durable peace by repairing some of the disruptions of the world market. In three Eisenhower years our annual average exports ran two billion dollars higher than the average during the Truman years.

And President Eisenhower has not neglected the home front. While we have been building a military strength never before attempted in our country during a non-war period, we have also strengthened and stabilized our domestic economy.

Now if the voters chose Eisenhower on this faith three years ago, they have every reason today to be satisfied with his performance and to want more of the same.

NEW SAFETY DEVICE

One of the leading automobile manufacturers has made a new safety device standard equipment on some of the new models. The device is an alarm buzzer which can be set for a certain speed. Once that speed is reached the alarm sounds, letting the driver know that he is exceeding the speed limit.

Arresting officers along our highways have often heard speeders offer the excuse that they did not realize how fast they were traveling. Anyone who has ever driven on a long trip over good roads realizes how easy it sometimes is to exceed the speed limit without being aware of it. The alarm buzzer could end all that.

It is good to see automobile manufacturers give attention to the problem of improving highway safety. It is all very well to build the finest engines possible, to improve the looks and efficiency of cars with sleek, new designs. But what is needed even more is the kind of thinking that will help make automobiles instruments of transportation and communication—not deadly weapons.

It's easy for a married man to have the last word, as long as it's "Yes dear."

THE BOOM IN BEAVER

Definite proof is now available that furred women are eager for beaver.

None other than the Fish and Wildlife Service reports that during the 1954-55 trapping season more than 183,000 beaver pelts were collected.

Women are losing interest in other long-haired fur, it seems. Beaver is the only fur that has not slumped in demand.

It's not that there aren't plenty of muskrats, skunks, raccoons, opossums, weasels, otters and wolves running wild, say Fish and Wildlife officials. It's just that raw furs are bringing such low prices that trappers aren't interested.

But don't get too cocky, men. Despite the decline, minks supplied more than 400,000

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THE BUILD-UP

When all of a sudden, there seems to be a plethora of favorable, sympathy-wringing notices, tear-jerking stories, about an actress whose picture is to appear, then one may smell a build-up. An effort is being made apparently by a competent press agent to interest the ticket-buying public in this particular person in the hope that all will be forgotten and forgiven. It is usually a good way to rake in the dollars and what worthier interest can a press agent have?

I was moved to think of that when out of a clear blue sky, so to speak, emotion-packed stories appeared in the press and in magazines and over the radio about an actress, Ingrid Bergman, of whom one said, that he who is without sin should cast the first stone. It is good press-agency to quote the Bible, even though some knowledge of moral law and respect for it are lacking.

Miss Bergman's difficulties and her absence from the very profitable American box office arise from the fact that she deserted her husband and child and pursued another man with whom she had a child out of wedlock. All these family activities were not without press-agency, giving at first the impression that these acts of whim and cruelty were performed to boost a bad picture or a fading theatrical personality.

However, such judgment of the situation proved to be incorrect. Miss Bergman persisted in her adultery, eventually divorcing her husband. Her daughter thereupon changed her given name from the one her mother preferred, evidencing a distaste for maternal conduct.

This generation and particularly this country have become accustomed to marital infidelity to broken homes, to deserted children, to columnists fawning over those who are shameless and calling them "celebrities," so that our children use photographs of such as pin-ups and save their autographs as though they were not worthless.

Therefore this episode would have passed as one of many. However, all of a sudden we are asked to condone where there has been no repentance. Miss Bergman or her press agent, whoever is in charge of this effort, has taken the position that lots of people commit adultery, so what? Shall those who break the moral law publicly be more punished than those who break it secretly?

To that, of course, the answer must be that a public breach of the moral law is infinitely worse, because it is brazen.

There is the story of the young man who sat on the steps of the synagogue on the Day of Atonement when all men fasted, and he ate a bar of yellow soap. As distressing as it was to see one eat on such a day of awe, so disgusting was it to see him eat a bar of yellow soap which made him froth at the mouth like a mad dog. When he was asked why, if he wanted to eat while others fasted, did he not eat in the privacy of his home, and something good and tasty, he replied, "If I ate in privacy and something good and tasty, how would anyone know that I am a self-sacrificing revolutionist?"

For the same reason, many forensic persons feel that they must do everything in public, no matter how evil or ridiculous. Otherwise, how would anyone know that they are celebrities?

And, if one lives by such means, it is necessary to act accordingly, just as in the circus there are clowns and even those who stand on their heads. And we pay to see them because they make us laugh.

But when the moral law is broken, entirely different criteria arise, for in our struggle to survive as a people, and even more importantly, as a civilization, it is impossible not to view with alarm the degeneration of responsibility, of obligation or the capacity to curb lusts, of the seeking for the approval of God, of a belief in His judgment. For the alternative must be that anything goes if you can get by with it. And that is a particularly dangerous philosophy of life if applied broadly, for apart from its being morally wrong, it is pragmatically wrong when our civilization is in competition with the hard-working, producing, self-sacrificing Puritanism of the current Soviet countries. That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
CHLORPROMAZINE

Yesterday we were talking about the two new drugs available in treating the mentally disturbed patient. Chlorpromazine is a new drug developed by the Poulenc Laboratories in France in 1952 and reserpine is really a modern adaptation of an old remedy known in India for many centuries as the root of Rauwolfia serpentina. It was isolated in 1952 in the laboratories of the Ciba Pharmaceutical Products in the United States.

Chlorpromazine may be given by mouth or by hypodermic injection into the muscles or veins. Since patients adjust to it readily, it is well to make sure that the first dosage is adequate. This may be done effectively by giving 50 mgm. of the drug into the muscles on the first day, two doses of 50 mgm. each on the second day, and three similar doses on the third day. On the fourth day, 300 mgm. is given by mouth and the dose increased thereafter as indicated. Ordinarily, a daily dose of 400 mgm. is adequate but in some cases it has been necessary to increase the dose to 900 mgm. or more.

The principal side effects, all of which can be overcome, are jaundice, fever and shaking palsy. If hives or other skin symptoms develop, they respond promptly to the use of antihistamines. All these symptoms subside if the drug is discontinued and it has been observed that they do not occur again in many cases when the drug is given again.

The results in seriously disturbed patients in institutions often have been quite startling and the drug has proved useful in office practice as well. There have been many reports of patients who had previously been confused for considerable periods of time, hallucinated and aggressive in conduct, showing logical thinking, increased understanding and improved judgment almost overnight after the drug had been given for two or three weeks. Many patients of this type have been able to be discharged from the hospital and their improvement apparently has continued for a time, at least, after stopping the drug.

It is reported that in one series of studies of cases in a mental institution, the drug produced improvement in 40 to 60 per cent of cases who had been in hospital for five years or less and in at least 18 per cent of the cases who had been in hospital for five years or more. The conclusion was that patients respond better to large doses of chlorpromazine than they do to small doses and that treatment should be continued long enough for the best possible response to occur.

Tomorrow we will discuss reserpine, the other tranquilizing drug now available. These two drugs quiet patients without producing stupor and make them not only more calm and less anxious but also clearer in their minds and thus more easily treated by psychotherapy. It is altogether too early to say what the long-term results of the use of these drugs may be and caution as to their possible long range ill effects should not be overlooked. However, there is no doubt that they have marked an era in the treatment of the mentally ill.

Quadrennial Sack Race

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—President Eisenhower's Cabinet members are now being sent out in all directions to steam up their political campaigning. Republican National Committee headquarters minimizes the campaign activities of the department secretaries and says it has few commitments for their 100 per cent political appearances.

Their own offices say that most of the Cabinet speeches are non-political appearances before business groups in which their departments have a particular interest. But if in telling about the wonders of the administration programs they get in some political plugs—why that's only what you'd expect.

There are a few exceptions. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made an early resolve to stay out of the campaign in the interest of a nonpartisan foreign policy. But even Dulles now admits he's not sure how long he'll be able to hold out against getting involved in politics. He has already issued a statement defending the role of the President's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, in dealing with Argentina's Peron.

Secretary of Defense C. E. Wilson had planned to make a couple of political speeches. But his recent operation stopped them.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom is trying to stay out of politics. He feels that health and education should be nonpartisan.

Folsom has issued several statements correcting what he considers mistakes in Democratic programs. But his only scheduled speeches are before American Council on Education in Chicago Oct. 11 and National Conference of Catholic Charities in Buffalo Oct. 28.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and Postmaster Gen. Arthur E. Summerfield are both former Republican national chairmen, and they're more involved politically.

Brownell has already made two speeches in California, one in New Jersey and two in Illinois. He's tentatively booked ahead for three days in New York state, two days in Missouri, two in Minnesota, then back east for two more appearances in Pennsylvania and New York.

Summerfield spends four days in Columbus, Tiffin, Fostoria and Ashland, Ohio. He speaks before two rival organizations of postmasters Oct. 11 and 18 in St. Paul and New York. He addresses a political rally at Gettysburg, Pa. Oct. 13. On the 19th and 20th he'll dedicate new post offices in Dade City, St. Petersburg and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Secretary of Treasury George Humphrey is also trying to hold down on strictly political rallies. He went with President Eisenhower to Cleveland and Louisville and will probably go back to Cleveland for a big rally Nov. 2. But he has Connecticut and Massachusetts and maybe a few other speeches tentatively lined up.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell is speaking before every labor union convention he can make. His future book includes Springfield, Ill., Seattle, Chicago and Washington.

In between he'll make straight political appearances in his home state of New Jersey, in Illinois and Ohio, and an all-day tour of Massachusetts.

Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton started campaigning when Vice President Nixon did, on Sept. 18. He's been at it ever since. His particular area is the West, where Interior land, water, power and reclamation policies count most.

Secretary of Commerce C.legg Weeks has been specializing on business and trade associations like Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Producers meeting in Houston, Municipal Bond Club in Philadelphia and the Traffic Club in Cleveland.

But as a former GOP Finance Committee chairman, Secretary Weeks is most useful in money-raising campaigns. Thus he is principal speaker at a $100-a-plate Republican dinner in Des Moines and Ohio Republican Finance meetings in Cleveland and Youngstown.

None of the other Cabinet members can match campaigning with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, however. He has spoken in every state of the Union.

Sanctity of Treaty Called Only Real Suez Canal Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 11 — "The sanctity of a treaty — whether the promises men live by will be kept—is the only real issue in the Suez Canal controversy. Time was, just a few decades ago, when world opinion centered on ways and means of arbitrating or settling—an international commission of jurists—all questions of a "justiciable" nature. The idea was that, if it was a "legal" question and not one that involved "national honor," nations should be prepared to let impartial judges settle it.

Treaty Covers Subject

Is the world today devoid of jurists who can examine the treaty of 1888 which provides for management of the Suez Canal? Why should there be talk of war or exaggerated claims about "sovereignty" which have little to do with the matter when the words of a treaty, duly signed by the principle nations using the canal, cover that subject and provide what shall be done in various contingencies?

The Suez Canal treaty of 1888 itself, which is of indefinite duration and has never been abrogated by the nations that signed it, says:

"Article I. The Suez Canal maritime canal shall always be free and open, in time of war as in time of peace, to every vessel of commerce of war, without distinction of flag. Consequently, the high contracting parties agree not in any way to interfere with the free use of the canal, in time of war as in time of peace. The canal shall never be subjected to the exercise of the right of blockade.

"Article II. The high contracting parties, recognizing that the fresh-water canal is indispensable to the maritime canal, take note of the engagements of his highness the Khedive (of Egypt) toward the Universal Suez Canal Company as regards the fresh-water canal, which engagements are stipulated in a convention bearing date the 18th March, 1863.

"They (the signatories) undertake not to interfere in any way with the security of that canal and its branches, the working of which shall not be exposed to any attempt at obstruction. . . .

Enforcement Provided

"Article VIII. The agents in Egypt of the signatory powers of the present treaty shall be charged to watch over its execution. . . .

"Article IX. The Egyptian government shall, within the limits of its powers resulting from the firmans (decrees of the Turkish government) and under the conditions provided for in the present treaty, take the necessary measures for insuring the execution of the said treaty.

"In case the Egyptian government should not have sufficient means at its disposal, it shall call upon the imperial Ottoman government (Turkey), which shall take the necessary measures to respond to such appeal; shall give notice thereof to the signatory powers of the declaration of London of the 17th March, 1885; and shall, if necessary, concert with them on the subject. . . .

"Article XIII. With the exception of the obligations expressly provided by the clauses of the present treaty, the sovereign rights of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan (of Turkey) and the rights and immunities of his highness the Khedive (of Egypt), . . . are in no way affected."

The nations signing this were Great Britain, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Spain, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Russia and Turkey. Since those days, the form of government in some of these countries has changed but, unless a treaty is specifically repudiated, it remains in force as an obligation of the government that has succeeded the regime that signed the document. Also Turkey's rights over Egypt itself were given up as a result of changes brought by World War I, but the Egyptian government is still bound by the same legal obligations as it was when it existed as a political entity under Turkish rule. Successors or heirs to contracts are bound by the provisions of those contracts.

No Question of Sovereignty

There is and has been no question, therefore, about the "sovereign" rights of Egypt in reference to the canal and surrounding territory. The only limitation on Egyptian "sovereignty" is the one Egypt herself accepted when she undertook to keep in operation the 1888 treaty. She continued to function under it until the recent seizure of the canal property itself. This act apparently was a violation of the specific obligations of the treaty, but it did not render the treaty null and void.

How long does the treaty run? The canal company contract has until 1968 to go, but the treaty of 1888 says:

"The high contracting parties agree that the engagements resulting from the present treaty shall not be limited by the duration of the acts of concession of the Universal Suez Canal Company."

So the legal questions are clearly evident from a reading of the treaty. Can a nation go back on its word and yet claim it is observing the treaty? Why should the parties to a 1888 treaty agree to a mutual abrogation unless a new treaty benighted them? Cannot the dispute be resolved by an agreement among the users of the canal negotiated now with the Egyptian government but retaining the over-all protection of the 1888 treaty?

This is a problem for lawyers—not for soldiers. Surely in the United Nations, or outside of it, a juridical commission can be formed to render a legal opinion—even if advisory—on the obligations of the present Egyptian government and the other parties to the 1888 treaty. If contracts can be broken at will, international order will be disrupted and wars will result. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

William J. Brennan, the nominee for the Minton seat on the Supreme Court, easily might improve that bench even though he is an alumnus of Felix Frankfurter's classes which prepared Alger Hiss and others like him for their careers.

Frankfurter is the only nominee who ever needed a mouthpiece during hearings on his fitness. Dean Acheson appeared at his elbow. In that gummy language which is his own patois weenie seemed to say that his remarks were not testimony, but, in the same paragraph, added that he was only the second nominee in history to testify for himself. He was not sworn.

His confirmation was a foregone political conclusion and he went on to a clandestine political career concurrent with his judicial work. His testimony for Hiss in the first trial was revealing. He had inducted both Alger and Donald Hiss and many other proteges as bad as Alger into the government web. His alumni included flagrant Communists. Allocated the House Committee on Un-American Activities not to make him squeal on Weenie, but Congressman Dick Nixon insisted. Hiss then named Frankfurter. This dogged insistence and Nixon's disclosure of many other spies was the sole reason for the conspiracy to dump Nixon off the Republican ticket a few weeks ago.

Frankfurter's evasions so vexed the late Senator Pat McCarran that when Weenie finally said he "most assuredly" did believe in the Constitution, McCarran exclaimed "I am glad to get that positive answer from you."

McCarran had shown him a roster of the Civil Liberties Union in which his name appeared with that of William Z. Foster, a Communist candidate for President, and asked, "did you notice that you were on that committee with Mr. Foster?" Weenie replied: "I believe Mr. Foster was, at one time, a member of that committee. I do not know whether he is at this time or not."

He also referred, in his name-dropping way, to his distinguished friend, Henry L. Stimson, a few years later, Harold Ickes, in one of his pot-boilers for The Saturday Evening Post, disclosed that Felix planted Stimson in the job of Secretary of War. Politics became a major concern of the War Department, and officers who covered up the criminal negligence which kept Admiral Kimmel and General Short in ignorance of the approaching attack on Pearl Harbor were promoted to astral rank.

During the war, Frankfurter was fed secret information from the Office of War Information concerning political and military commitments in Europe. He had absolute right to this stuff and no conceivable legitimate interest as a justice. This fact came out in hearings after the war.

The inspection of Henry Morgenthau's massive diaries by the Eastland committee, successor to Joe McCarthy's committee, turns up Frankfurter's name scores of times. He was poking his snout into everything all the time. One phone conversation is reported in which Felix claimed "credit" for the appointment of John G. Winant to the London Embassy. Winant became the instrument for official approval by the Truman administration of the abandonment of East Germany to Soviet Russia and the waiver of access to Berlin. This was consistent with Morgenthau's plan to give Germany entirely to Russia and leave Europe undefended down to Gibraltar.

In another Morgenthau entry Stimson flatly stated that Felix was the one who invited him to be Secretary of War. In a memo of a phone conversation, Morgenthau reported that Frankfurter boasted that he helped dictate the appointment of Lord Lothian to be British ambassador to Washington. Again, Stimson intimated that Frankfurter was the intermediary for Sidney Hillman, who is historically credited with inflicting the Truman presidency on the country with consequent benefits for Moscow and Red China and disasters to the United States.

It is impossible to estimate the results of Weenie's confirmation because Senator Eastland is suppressing the Morgenthau diaries. Joe McCarthy would have published them with booming publicity.

Tallamy Will

man of the New York Thruway Authority since 1950. From 1948 to 1954 he also served as superintendent of the state's public works department.

Term Indefinite

Tallamy's appointment to the federal post will be for an indefinite period—"at the pleasure of the President" as the law puts it.

Volpe, 47, is a former Massachusetts commissioner of public works.

Hagerty said Volpe will disassociate himself completely from his construction firm while serving as interim federal highway administrator. He said the firm "never has done any federal, state or local highway construction work."

Two Burned to Death

Toronto, Oct. 12 (AP)—Michael Ball, 18, and his wife, Sandra, 17, were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their cottage—a rebuilt chicken house—in nearby Richmond Hill. Police said Ball's body was found in bed; his wife's body lay near the cottage's only door. A neighbor, Mrs. Blanche Facer, said she spotted the 12-by-25 foot building ablaze and called firemen. The cottage was leveled within a half hour.

Stevensons Will Cut Cake Here On Ike's Birthday

A town of Ulster family named Stevenson will cut the Eisenhower birthday cake in front of the county court house today at 7:30 p. m., it was announced by Attorney S. James Matthews, head of Ulster County Youth for Eisenhower.

William Paul Stevenson, of 13 Otis street, and his family will cut the birthday cake, baked from Mamie Eisenhower's favorite recipe. The cake will be distributed to shopping crowds in the uptown business area.

Two Celebrations

The cake-cutting ceremony is one of two celebrations scheduled locally in observance of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's birthday, Saturday, Oct. 13.

The Ulster County Women's Republican Club said it would hold a party at its headquarters, 9 Main street, Saturday. A birthday cake will also be part of the celebration there.

"Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson have expressed a desire to take part in the birthday celebration to pay tribute to Mr. Eisenhower's dedication to our nation and are anxious to lend the name of Stevenson in honoring the President," Mr. Matthews said.

To Sign Scrolls

Scrolls will be passed for signatures wishing the President a happy birthday. The scrolls, which will be sent directly to President and Mrs. Eisenhower, read:

"In appreciation of your dedication to our nation and the example you have set of devotion to God, family and your fellowman. . . Happy Birthday, Ike. You have asked that the coming election be the decision of America, not the decision of a minority. Therefore, I pledge to vote and to do all I can between now and Election Day to encourage my friends and neighbors to vote."

Urges Registration

Mr. Matthews emphasized that the finest birthday present anyone could give the President would be to "encourage everyone to register and vote according to our great American tradition this November."

The President has placed emphasis on the need for "first voters" to study the campaign issues and personalities with care, and above all, to register and vote, Mr. Matthews said. Today and tomorrow are the last two days for registration.

Saturday Party

The Women's Republican Club party will be held Saturday at 3 p. m., it was announced by Mrs. Henry DeWitt, president, who is soliciting cakes from housewives and others who wish to honor the President.

After the party they are to be sent to hospitals and nursing homes, she said, also to children's homes.

Serving on the committee with Mrs. DeWitt are Mrs. Harry Rylea, Mrs. Evelyn Hotelling and Mrs. Lee Rognon.

"They weren't signed and we don't know whether they came from the missing aircraft or not," he said, "but we're going to search that part of the Atlantic so thoroughly a fly couldn't hide in it."

A previous SOS, heard by search planes yesterday, turned out to be a garbled version of a message between ocean freighters discussing the search.

The search drew American, British and Portuguese planes from the Azores, Scotland, England, France, Germany, Malta, Iceland and North Africa. Giant jet bombers criss-crossed the ocean at high altitude, using radar. Planes from the carrier Antietam were ordered into the search today.

Turbulent Middle East May Explode Into New Crisis

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The turbulent Middle East is threatening to explode a new crisis.

King Faisal of Iraq is due to send about 3,000 troops into Jordan soon at the request of his cousin, Jordan's King Hussein, to help stabilize that country in advance of Oct. 21 parliamentary elections.

The United States and Britain have given at least tacit approval in the interest of preventing a possible collapse of law and order in Jordan, but officials here are by no means certain what the repercussions will be.

Israel is said to have advised the United States it cannot view with indifference what it regards as the potential military reinforcement of the Arab state with which it has the longest common border. There has been heavy fighting along the Israeli-Jordan frontier in recent days.

The reaction of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, central figure in the Suez canal dispute, is unpredictable. Nasser long has tried to increase his own influence over Jordan and the Arab world generally.

Hussein is said to have appealed to Faisal about two weeks ago to send troops into Jordan to help stabilize the country. Diplomats reported Iraq's plan is to send in three underground brigades totaling about 3,000 men.

They would be stationed in eastern Jordan, well away from the Jordanian border with Israel, according to this plan, and would have the task of guarding oil pipelines which carry petroleum from the rich Iraqi fields to the Mediterranean. They would also be on hand to help control any uprisings within the country.

American officials understand they may move within a few days.

Jordan has been caught for months in the cross currents of Middle Eastern politics resulting from a power struggle that involves primarily Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Iraq. All three countries are reported to have been spending heavily in Jordan to advance their sometimes similar and sometimes conflicting purposes.

How Planning

George R. Volker of the New York State Department of Commerce.

Mr. Volker said at that meeting, called by Mayor Stang with the aim of arriving at an area master plan, that metropolitan planning would solve highway movement, drainage, flood control and recreation problems.

Must Consider City
Mr. Clark said he endorsed this proposal "because you can't think of planning in the town of Ulster without considering the city of Kingston."

"They're definitely related," he said, "and only through the cooperation of Kingston and other surrounding communities will everyone benefit."

He emphasized that town boards regulate planning and the job of the planning consultant is in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Clark introduced Robert W. Mickle, his associate, who is working directly with the town of Ulster. Mr. Mickle described the detailed procedures used in town planning.

The town of Ulster, now undergoing rapid changes and growth, has been studying the problems and seeking adequate solutions since the appointment of a planning board and zoning commission about two years ago.

One of Critical Areas
The bureau of planning of the New York State Department of Commerce has listed the town of Ulster as one of the critical areas of the state in the matter of town planning, with its recent rapid influx of industry and population and the mushrooming of new housing developments.

Final approval was received last week for state and federal grants of aid amounting to $19,000 for municipal planning in the township. The town is the first township in the state to receive such aid.

The planning board, headed by Dr. William Pretsch, and the zoning commission, whose chairman is Daniel Morehouse, and the town board, including Supervisor Percy Bush, attended last night's meeting.

Mr. Clark, at present, is engaged in preparing plans for the solution of current problems and for the guidance of future development in 12 cities and towns in the eastern part of the United States.

He recently completed two years as president of the American Institute of Planners, the national professional society in the field of city, town and regional planning.

Of most recent interest, Mr. Clark has been called upon by Governor Ribicoff of Connecticut to serve as consultant and chairman of the governor's advisory committee to assist in planning and redeveloping the flood-ravaged communities of that state.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—The stock market nudged upward in light, semi-holiday trading early this afternoon.

Improvements ranging from fractions to around a point were posted for leading stocks. There were a few small declines.

Some banks were closed because of the Columbus Day observance and many traders and brokers were off for a long weekend.

There was nothing in the way of outstanding news to push the market either way.

Prices were mixed at the start. After the opening flurry the turnover slackened greatly and irregularity continued.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $179.20 with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails unchanged and the utilities up 20 cents.

Voters Have Last

for a goodly turnout tonight to avoid a last minute rush on Saturday.

Both Republican and Democratic leaders have been making appeals for all to register and various organizations have been conducting drives in preparation for a big presidential vote.

Registration in New York city dropped off a bit late yesterday and last night, according to the Associated Press, as 440,768 signed up.

The four day total now stands at 2,046,374—more than five per cent under the number registered for the last presidential election in 1952.

Registration continues in New York today and tomorrow.

Approximately one-fourth of the gasoline consumed in the United States is used on farms.

Uneasy Quiet Settles Over Hong Kong

Hong Kong, Oct. 12 (AP)—An uneasy quiet settled today over riot-torn Kowloon and surrounding villages. Authorities kept a tight curfew clamped on Hong Kong's mainland territory where two days of frenzied rioting and factional fighting left 44 known dead.

The colony's British government also sealed Hong Kong's border with Communist China, presumably to prevent Red agents from slipping across, to further inflame the atmosphere.

Acting Gov. E. B. David extended the curfew imposed Thursday until Saturday morning to give police a better chance to round up persons suspected of leading the riots.

Housewives in each of Kowloon's six curfew zones were allowed only two hours a day on the streets to buy provisions. Gurkha troops from Himalayan Nepal lined the streets as crowds rushed to the stores were prices already were soaring. Spotter planes hovered overhead.

Except for those hours, Kowloon was almost a dead city. Its streets were deserted, and most restaurants and all movie houses closed their doors.

Suggestion Given
operating a "driver improvement program" based on those records.

Kahl also urged establishment of a "governor's traffic safety coordinating commission" to include top-ranking members of the executive and legislative branches of government.

He suggested further setting up a state safety committee composed of civic, business and safety interests to lend support to the overall program.

Kahl said New York could make Connecticut's program "more productive" by agreeing to

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

It was said that when the colonists came to United States from Europe they were mostly farmers. H. A. Haring in his book, "Our Catskill Mountains" wrote they had their problems, for among the high mountains they found here. The very narrow valleys, meant that morning and evening shadows are long, or as the natives put it, "the sun rises two hours late and sets two hours early." In other words the sunshine in the valleys are brief.

They went in for cattle raising for the cattle could climb from one grass plot to another. During the decades when tan bark peeling and blue stone quarrying was thriving, farming followed the population into the remotest hollow. The plow turned over its furrow upwards to elevations where today only the hardest of campers go.

Thousands of horses were needed during the years of bark peeling and stone quarrying. They hauled bark from the deep forests to the tanneries, raw hides from the Hudson river, and no doubt our own Rondout, some 30 to 50 miles to the tanneries. Later tanned leather had to be brought down the same distance. Also, Hemlock, lumber and barrel-hoops from all the mountain valleys to the Hudson, and blue stone to the docks. So in the early days, there was work for man and beast in the Catskills and both had to eat well. The gardens had to be cultivated and grain and hay had to be raised.

The author writes, how every hillside that held any soil became a hay field. Every level spot was planted with corn or oats. In this manner every patch of ground was cultivated even on the very mountain summits. That is why present day hunters or trout fisherman may be surprised to suddenly see a clearing in the middle of a forest. Some of these clearings were called meadows or flats, like "old quarry flats" or "Riseley's flats" etc. They also had apple orchards which still blossom in the spring with beautiful flowers but the fruit has been neglected for so long that it is not eatable.

The author writes, that although folks cannot eat the apples, but as winter approaches with the noonday sun still warm, the black bears love to bask in the sunshine beneath these strange apple trees, and fill themselves with the fallen fruit. Then as twilight approaches and the bears have gone, these same apple trees may be visited by families of deer. They glide noiselessly out of the deep woods to munch at the apples hanging to the branches. Later still, as winter comes and snow piles high, the same deer may reach one or two frozen fruit that still cling to the branches. When these are gone, the animals are left to nuzzle right down through the snow for the fallen fruit hidden beneath. No doubt that is how the deer exist through the winter.

I am glad to see our Forsyth Park having an ever growing zoo, so that the animals of this country and this locality will become familiar to the younger generations. Many of them have never seen such animals in real life. Some of these animals, I understand, have been loaned from the Catskill Game Farm. Among them, the baby bears, which are very playful. Of course, in a cage by herself is our famous Betty the bear, which was caught on an uptown Kingston street as a cub, and has been a resident of Forsyth Park ever since.

Why We Say--

NONSENSE: Uncultured people may be called barbarians. But the name came from the Greeks, who were scornful of languages they didn't understand. Just as we sometimes refer to unknown sounds as "blah blah," they called the foreign words "bar bar" and the people uttering the sounds "barbarians."

Timely Tips for 'Tricks or Treats'

One of the easiest, most economical ways to make Halloween trick-or-treaters happy and contented is to pass out packages of some popular brand of chewing gum. Chewing gum comes neatly and securely wrapped, is convenient to handle and always makes a hit with youngsters, from the smallest spook and goblins up.

Children's parents are grateful, too, because gum is a pure, light and wholesome treat that doesn't put any burden on digestion. Halloween is on the way, so if you want to be wisely prepared for the treat-seeking brigade, better get a supply of chewing gum. You'll win a lot of thanks without spending a lot of money.

Nelson in Exercise

Pfc. Nels Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Nelson Sr., Wallkill, recently took part in a field training exercise in France. A message center clerk in the 7867th Army Unit's Headquarters and Service Company, Nelson entered the army in August 1955. He completed basic training at Fort Dix N. J., and arrived in Europe last February. The 19-year-old soldier is a 1955 graduate of Wallkill Central High School.

Completes Training

Alonzo Clearwater Jr., 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Clearwater of 16 Brook street, completed his air force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. He is now stationed at Scott Air Force Base, Illinois.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

South Limits
Spade Losses
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South refused the first club trick today, but saw no reason to refuse a second. His play took a little thought.

South needs three spade tricks to assure the contract, and he doesn't know which opponent will break 3-3 or 4-2. How should he play the spades in order to have the best chance to develop three tricks? South's best chance is to lead toward the two honors. In this case, South leads a low spade and dummy wins with the queen.

South now gets to his hand with a diamond and leads his remaining small spade. West is obliged to play the ace, capturing only small cards. This is exactly what South has been hoping for.

West takes his clubs, but South is out of danger. He can get a second spade trick with the king and a third with dummy's jack.

If West had not been obliged to play the ace of spades on the second round of that suit, dummy would then win with the jack. Then South could still play for a 3-3 break in the suit. He would thus win three spades.

tricks if West had the doubleton ace or if the suit were 3-3.
It would do no good to return a spade from the dummy after winning the first spade trick with the queen. Not being a mind-reader, South would put up the king and lose to West's ace. Then the 4-2 break would limit him to two spade tricks.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

In fourteen hundred and ninety-two Columbus sailed the ocean blue. A brave Italian, though he sailed for Spain. His perilous voyage was not in vain.

For seven long years he had begged for aid. Till wise Isabella his expedition O.K'd. She gave him ships which in number were three. The Nina, the Pinta, the Santa Maria.

She gave him a crew of the bravest of men. The records show there were twelve times ten. Columbus, with his trusty crew, Sailed from Palos 'mid weep wishes too.

For a short route to India, he was westward bound. But instead of India, America he found. He touched the Bahamas, Cuba, Haiti too; But what land it was he hardly knew.

On October the 12th of the very same year, He reached the mainland of our America dear. He discovered this land 'n the name of Spain. Which really was a worthwhile gain.

We always shall his praises sing: Columbus, the "brave," the "Norse sea-king." Thanks to Chris for our wondrous land; We wish we had lived to shake his hand.

But since that was long before our time, We'll set his marvelous deed to rhyme. And may we never forget the day That Chris Columbus came our way.

Herefords Will Go 2,700 Miles to Show

Timonium, Md., Oct. 12 (AP)—A small herd of purebred Hereford cattle will travel 2,700 miles to compete in this year's Eastern National Livestock Show Nov. 10-15.

A. H. Karte of Bakersfield, Calif., has entered 23 head in what the promoters like to call "the livestock show-window of the east."

Joseph M. Vial, general manager, said more than $51,000 in premium money will be offered for exhibitors in the open class and junior show.

Although entries do not close until Saturday, Vial said, indications are that they will exceed last year's record high of 2,000 head of livestock from 23 states.

The Eastern National is held annually in the main livestock building of the Maryland state fairgrounds. Premium money is supplied by the Maryland State Fair Board and the various livestock breed associations.

Jaffe Suit Settled

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Harriet M. Jaffe of Brooklyn yesterday accepted a $117,500 settlement in a suit filed in Brooklyn Supreme Court for damages resulting from a propane gas explosion in a summer cottage in which her husband and five-year-old son were fatally burned. The settlement came just before the beginning of a $300,000 negligence suit before Judge David Benjamin.

On July 5, 1952, Jaffe, a wholesale fruiterer, lit a match in the cottage basement at Peekskill Hollow Road, Putnam Valley, N. Y., while looking for a rubber ball. Leaking gas caused an explosion. The boy, Martin, died a week later, and Jaffe two weeks later from burns.

The Mature Parent

Play the Game So Baby
Learns to Lose by Winning

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Edward has a game called "Captain Kidd's Treasure Hunt." To play it, you first whirl a needle around a dial that tells you how many moves to make on the board. Then, with one of the game's little plastic pirates, you adventure forth into good and baneful encounters with such hazards as the Typhoon, the Secret of the Marooned Sailor, the Good Trade Winds, Shark Cove, etc.

Sometimes Edward's father plays the game with him. And as it is one of chance, sometimes beats him.

Then there's trouble. For as Edward has moved his plastic pirate nearer and nearer the final Treasure Cave, fear that his father's piece may overtake him has grown almost unbearable.

When the race is lost, he will burst into tears of frustration or withdraw into such resentful discouragement that his father says in understanding impatience: "Why do you ask me to play this game if losing makes you so mad? If you're going to carry on like this when I beat you, let's not play any more."

Edward is seven. Few game-playing children of his age have the moral strength to take the disappointment of defeat after the expectation of victory.

But the solution is not refusing to play games with them.

My favorite solution is one used by social workers Fritz Redl and David Wineman in their work with children. It is to play one game of "Captain Kidd's Treasure Hunt" with Edward, according to the game's rules; and then to play a second according to Edward's wishes.

By which I mean that Edward's father might say to him: "All right, let's play this way. We'll play the first game by the real rules, each of us moving our pirates as far as the needle tells us to go, no matter which of beats the other. But we'll play the second game by baby rules.

You can move as fast as the needle tells you to but I'll never move more than five spaces at a time."

This solution to a younger child's intolerance of defeat has two advantages.

First, it makes it possible for him to accept some defeat by insuring him some victory. As he experiences defeat as something he can bear, it loses its power to overwhelm him with discouragement.

Second, it enables us to preserve the difference between the real game we play with the child and the "baby" one. It allows us to cooperate with the younger child's need to pretend he has won a victory without becoming part of his pretense ourselves.

Advises Dockers

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany has urged the port of New York's 22,000 dock workers to oust the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) in next Wednesday's representation election. In a statement last night Meany said the ILA, tossed out of the AFL three years ago for failing to rid its ranks of racketeers, has not "done a single thing to clean house" and is "a disgrace to the good name of organized labor." Meany said he mailed a letter to all dockers eligible to vote in the National Labor Relations Board election, urging them to cast their ballots for the AFL-CIO's International Brotherhood of Longshoremen (IBL). "You can't expect the crooks to clean themselves out," Meany said. Meany recently turned down a plea by ILA President William V. Bradley that his union be reinstated to the merged labor group.

Sees Roads Slipping

Boston, Oct. 12 (AP)—George Alpert, president of the New Haven Railroad, has hinted that 29 branch lines of the New Haven may be abandoned. He told the Traffic Club of New England last night that the railroad is conducting a study of costs and revenues on those branch lines, mostly in the Boston area. "When we digest that I'm afraid we'll have to take action that will be inevitable," Alpert said. "The automobile has replaced the train on the short runs and branch lines. Whether we like it or not I'm afraid that with many branch lines a railroad is becoming outmoded, and I'm afraid some of our branch lines on the New Haven are destined to go the way of the stagecoach—out of existence."

Brazil was the only South American country to enter World War 1.

Captain's Version

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—The captain of the Andrea Doria says it was a choice between saving his ship or his passengers when the vessel collided with the Stockholm—and he saved his passengers. Capt. Piero Calamai testified yesterday in a federal pre-trial hearing into the sinking of his ship off the Massachusetts coast. The collision occurred the night of July 25, and the Doria went to the bottom 11 hours later. Calamai said he was only about 20 or 30 miles from shallow water when the crash came. There, he said, he could have beached his craft or, if she sank, she could have been salvaged.

Dairymen Asking Necessary Funds For Brucellosis

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—The Dairymen's League has asked the state to appropriate "necessary funds" for a "sound program" to eradicate brucellosis, a cattle disease.

Funds for the disease, which causes abortion in cows, stirred a dispute during the summer.

Republican state leaders charged the Democratic administration with shifting funds from the tuberculosis control program in cattle into the brucellosis control program.

The Republicans said this endangered the health of New York state residents. The administration replied that the funds had been restored and both programs were back to normal.

The Dairymen's League passed the resolution at the closing session of its 37th annual meeting.

Mrs. Margaret C. Weiss, president of the Maryland Telephone Union said the operators feel their "reputation of good service" was being ruined by "many discourtesies" and a lack of knowledge on the part of supervisory personnel and other volunteers who took over the strike-bound switchboards.

"Therefore, the operators have decided to return to work and give the public the quality of service it deserves," she added.

'Don't Grow Old, Grow Up,' Says Young Looking Dorothy Carnegie in Her Book

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

You can be a juvenile delinquent no matter how old you are says young looking Dorothy Carnegie, a glamorous redhead from Tulsa, Okla., who now is president of the varied enterprises founded by her husband, the late Dale Carnegie.

The trick in making the most of life is to acquire an adult mind, says Mrs. Carnegie in a new book, "Don't Grow Old—Grow Up!" Just because you happen to be boss of your own home and checkbook, owner of a mink coat and a portfolio of stocks doesn't necessarily mean you're grown up. She adds:

"Lots of women—and men, too—go through life with the attitude of my four-year-old daughter, Donna Dale, who waited when she fell off a chair: 'Bad old chair made me fall!'"

It's all too human, says Dorothy, to pass the buck and blame the other fellow for one's failures and shortcomings. It's a trick that starts in childhood and often continues through life. She advises grownups to take a candid assessment of themselves, recognize both good and bad points and then proceed to develop the former and subdue the latter.

This strictly feminine young woman is quite a living success story herself. A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, she went to work as a secretary for an oil company after college, took a Dale Carnegie course in public speaking, came to New York as Carnegie's private secretary in 1943 and married the boss.

"My husband always said I got more out of the course than most people," says Mrs. Carnegie. "But the fact is that lots of our top executives met their husbands or wives through the course. Now many of them are working together all over the country."

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Carnegie determined to carry on his work, and has been running his enterprises as president ever since.

Although she looks more like a sheltered housewife than a business executive, Mrs. Carnegie has expanded the business to international scope in the last couple of years, now having branches in Switzerland, Germany, England, Norway and Sweden.

"People are the same the world over," says she. "They want to learn to express themselves, understand themselves and be liked by other people. That's what we try to teach them."

"Once people just learn to speak effectively and forget their self-consciousness it often helps them readjust their whole lives."

The greatest national waste of time in Dorothy Carnegie's opinion is worrying over getting old.

"People can have more fun, enjoy life and accomplish more after 40 than before," says she, "if they just let themselves grow up."

Boyce-Schroeder Nuptials Are Told

MR. and MRS. WILFRED W. SCHROEDER (Photo Workshop)

On Saturday, Oct. 6, at 3 p. m. at Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, the Rev. David C. Gaise united in marriage Miss Margaret Ann Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boyce of 582 Broadway and Wilfred Wayne Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schroeder of Lincoln, Ill.

It was a double ring ceremony. Mrs. Lester E. Decker was at the organ and John Koch sang several selections.

Bouquets of white gladioli and carnations decorated the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white brocaded gown with a chapel train, mandarin collar, scoop yoke and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The gown was fashioned with a long torso and bouffant skirt. Her crown was trimmed with seed pearls and sequins and it held the fingertip veil.

The bride carried a white Bible adorned with white roses.

Mrs. Henry Bailey, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a gown of green nylon net fashioned with a molded bodice of shirred slipper satin and a very full floor length skirt, trimmed with shirred net. Her headpiece was of matching pearly sequins, and she carried a nosegay of assorted flowers in pastel shades.

Bridesmaids included Miss Ruth E. Bink of Hudson and Miss Carol Tremper, Delaware avenue. Their gowns were identical to that of the matron of honor except in lavender and they carried nosegays of assorted flowers.

The Misses Patricia and Sandra Bailey, nieces of the bride, were the flower girls. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue and pink trim rayon-acetate dress. Her accessories were pink and blue and she had a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress trimmed with navy blue satin. She had navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Serving as best man was Loren Schroeder, brother of the bridegroom from Chicago, Ill. Ushers were Ronald Boyce, brother of the bride and Richard Arnesen of Massachusetts.

Master William Boyce, nephew of the bride, was the child ringbearer.

A reception was held at the Alpine in DeWitt Lake, following the church ceremony for approximately 80 guests.

Mrs. Wayne is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed as a secretary by IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Pulaski High School, Mt. Pulaski, Ill., and De Bry Technical Institute, Chicago, Ill. He is employed as a field engineer by IBM in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a blue wool sheath dress with matching jacket, a winter white hat and gloves and black accessories.

The couple will make their home on Rosendale road.

"IMMEDIATE FAMILY"

"My son expects to be married soon. My problem is this: A very dear friend of the bride's mother is giving a party the night before the wedding for the immediate families. The wedding is to take place several hundred miles from here. Besides my two sons and a daughter, my two brothers and their wives and my sister, a widow, will attend the wedding. We will all stay at the same hotel. I would like to know if my two brothers and their wives and my sister are expected to go to this party. My daughter says that immediate family means just the groom's mother and his brothers and sisters and that his aunt and uncle are not included. Will you please tell me if the above-mentioned relatives are considered immediate family?"

Answer: Your daughter is right.

Sit or Rise?

Dear Mrs. Post: Another young lady and I have just recently returned from a vacation at a very nice summer resort, and would like to know your opinion on a point of etiquette. When we arrived, the headwaiter seated us at a table with two young women and we kept this table for the whole week. Dinner was served from six thirty to seven thirty in the evening. We always got to the dining room promptly but the two young women always came in later. In fact, most of the time we were practically finished with dinner when they came in. I would like to know if it was necessary for us to rise when they came to the table.

Answer: Most certainly not.

Lemon With Tea

Dear Mrs. Post: When served tea with lemon, is it proper to squeeze the juice into the cup with the fingers, or should the lemon be dropped into the cup and the juice squeezed from it with the spoon?

Answer: Use your fingers.

How should the men of a small wedding party be dressed? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Wedding," describes small weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin

Double Ring Ceremony for Doreen Moore

MRS. GEORGE R. LAMOREAUX (Sterling photo)

Miss Doreen Ann Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore of West Hurley exchanged vows with George R. Lamoreaux, son of Mrs. John Torres of Connelly and Roland Lamoreaux of Kingston, Saturday, Oct. 6, at 11 a. m. in St. Peter's Church.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. William V. Reynolds.

Miss Nan Goldrick was at the organ and Martin Kelly, uncle of the bridegroom, sang several selections.

The altar was decorated with white mums and satin bows decorated the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a nylon tulle ballerina length gown styled with rows of ruffling to the hemline and it was trimmed with an overskirt which ended about ten inches above the hemline. Her neckline was sweetheart style with a nylon tulle insert and her lace sleeves tapered at the wrists. A fingertip length illusion veil was gathered to a cap of lace and seed pearls.

The bride carried a mother of pearl prayer book with chrysanthemums, ivy and stephanotis.

Miss Rose Ann Petrizzo of Esopus was the maid of honor. She wore a pink lace gown, ballerina length and a rhinestone trimmed headpiece to match. Miss Patrizzo carried a bouquet of shaded pink roses and chrysanthemums.

Richard Lamoreaux, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man. Ushers included Thomas DeMico of Kingston and Leo Bigler of Connelly.

A reception was held at the Capri immediately following the church ceremony.

Mrs. Lamoreaux is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1955, and is now employed by IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom, a Kingston High School graduate, served four years with the U. S. Navy. He is the proprietor of the Atlantic Service Station, Broadway and Liberty streets.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a green wool sheath dress with beige accessories and a black coat. A corsage of chrysanthemums and stephanotis completed her outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamoreaux will reside in Connelly when they return.

Community Concerts To Present First Program in December

The 28th concert season, featuring the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, will open early in December for members of the Kingston Community Concert Association, an affiliate of Columbia Artists Management, Inc., New York city.

Operating on the organized audience plan, the Kingston association presents three outstanding programs a year, for the first time this season, at the Community Theatre, Broadway.

The opening date is Tuesday, Dec. 4, when the internationally famous dance stylists, Koester and Stahl, ballet stars of the Berlin Opera House, will be presented. This will mark one of the initial performances of this dance team in America because Liselotte Koester and Jockel Stahl will be making their first American tour this fall. Their program ranges from satire to sentiment of old Vienna; from Spain to Hawaii; from the virtuosic "Salome" to the electric "Hamlet."

William Warfield, one of the greatest baritones of the day, will be presented, January 9, 1957.

The series will be brought to a close April 8, 1957, when the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos will play one of eight concerts outside of New York city while on a short spring tour.

All concerts will be given at Community Theatre, Broadway, marking another growth milestone for the Kingston group. Among the first cities in the United States to grasp the importance of the organized audience for success, Kingston presented its initial series at the Governor Clinton Hotel in 1928-29. Within a few years the group moved to Kingston High School. After four phenomenal seasons of oversubscribed houses, the directors decided to move to the theatre. The auditorium of more than 1,500 seats was completely subscribed during the annual one-week membership drive last spring.

New Blue Shield Policy Approved By Area Doctors

Nearly 90 per cent of Ulster county doctors will carry out the provisions of Blue Shield's new paid-in-full program for surgical services according to Dr. John A. Olivet, president of Ulster County Medical Society.

Single persons with an annual income up to $4,000 and families with income up to $6,000 will be eligible.

Dr. Olivet pointed out that the large majority of county doctors have for some time been participating physicians under Blue Shield's income ceilings of $2,500 for single persons and $4,000 for families. He said the percentage has increased steadily since the announcement of the new program of expanded benefits and higher income ceilings, offered at increased cost to members. Participating physicians are doctors who have pledged themselves to accept Blue Shield allowances for subscribers within the income ceilings as payment in full for surgery, anesthesiology, in-hospital medical care, and radiation therapy for malignant conditions.

"The pledge made by our physician members," Dr. Olivet said, "is indicative of their desire to cooperate with Blue Shield's effort to provide actual services instead of allowances to a larger percentage of the population. Through their support of New York's Blue Shield the large majority of our members have demonstrated that they agree with the national and state medical societies on the 76 non-profit Blue Shield plans embracing more than 38,000,000 Americans."

Family Religion Program Is Set By Adventists

A return to family religion is the subject of a world-wide prayer program in which Kingston Seventh-day Adventists will participate next week, according to the Rev. Jamile Jacobs, pastor.

Thursday mornings individual members and families will unite with other Adventists around the world in prayers for a greater Christian influence in the home as a key to solution of many human problems in the world today.

Encouraged by Radio

The plan is being encouraged in cooperation with the denomination's international radio broadcast, the Voice of Prophecy, with headquarters in Los Angeles. There the 100 staff members meet each Thursday morning to pray for divine guidance in world affairs and for the individual needs of some 3,000 persons who write to the program each week requesting prayer, he said.

The church here will earmark its regular contributions Saturday for the support of the Voice of Prophecy.

The program, which last year celebrated its 25th anniversary, is a portion of NBC's monitor schedule each weekend, and is heard on 600 stations in North America and some 200 more overseas. It is the second largest religion broadcast, the Rev. Mr. Jacobs said.

H. M. S. Richards, quiet-spoken star of the show, reports that, in spite of television's strong competition, mail continues to increase at Voice of Prophecy headquarters. At the present time, he said, there are nearly 86,000 active students enrolled in the program's Bible correspondence course.

A captain in the army was summoned to answer a charge of assault preferred against him by a sentry, who had stated that the officer had used him pretty roughly one evening at the gate of the barracks.
A humorous phase of the affair was that the officer apparently had no recollection of the alleged assault. The sentry had been so bold as to suggest that the officer was intoxicated.

Among those questioned was the captain's orderly, an Irishman, who protested loyally that the allegation of the sentry was a slander—that he was sure the captain was perfectly sober the evening of the alleged assault.
Questioner—Why are you sure that Captain White was sober that evening? Did he speak to you upon his return to quarters?
Irishman—He did, sor.
Questioner—What did he say?
Irishman—He told me to be sure an' call him early in the mornin', sor.
Questioner—And did the captain say why he wished to be called early?
Irishman—Yes, sor; he did, sor. He said he was goin' t' be Queen o' the May, sor.

Famous Vanderlyn Painting On Display in New York City

A 165-foot panorama of the Palace of Versailles, painted by the Kingston artist who distinguished himself in Colonial days, is part of a display which opened Thursday at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth avenue and 82nd street, New York city.

The painted canvas was done by John Vanderlyn who was born in Kingston in 1775.

In 1952, the hundredth anniversary of Vanderlyn's death, the panorama was given by the Kingston Senate House Association to the museum for restoration and exhibition.

In an especially-constructed circular room, the 165-foot canvas spreads before the public the scenic grandeur of Louis XIV's palace and gardens as they appeared in 1814.

Mannequins in costumes of the early 19th century from the collections of the Costume Institute of the Museum are arranged before the spectacular backdrop.

The panorama is surrounded by exhibitions closely related to it. A self-portrait of Vanderlyn is on view. The portrait, one of his outstanding works, was done by the artist for his patron, Aaron Burr.

Other Drawings Present
The Senate House Association has lent for exhibition the artist's original sketches for the panorama. A display of drawings and prints of people and events associated with the Versailles are hung adjoining the exhibition.

"The View of the Palace and Gardens of Versailles" was opened initially to New Yorkers in 1819 in the city's first art museum, the Rotunda, which was located at the northeast corner of City Hall Park. Vanderlyn designed the Rotunda to house his panorama as well as examples of his historical paintings.

The giant panorama was also shown in Philadelphia, Saratoga, Washington and New Orleans by Vanderlyn. It came eventually to rest, cut into some 24 pieces, in the old Senate House in this city.

Vanderlyn paintings are in the rotunda of the Capitol Building, Washington, D. C., the Philadelphia Museum of Fine Arts, the Louvre, Paris, France; Metropolitan, New York city and the Senate House in this city.

Painted Presidents
He was also famous as a painter of presidents having done portraits of Washington, Madison, Monroe and Zachary Taylor.

The restoration and repair of the 2,000 square feet of canvas occupied Laurence Majewski of the Metropolitan's conservation department for nearly two years. The work was made possible through a generous grant from an undisclosed source.

The museum will issue a picture guide, "The Panoramic View of the Palace and Gardens of Versailles," by Albert Ten Eyck Gardner, associate curator of American art. Mr. Vanderlyn's painted tour de force will be on exhibition during the celebration of International Museum Week which closed Oct. 13.

First Air Bombing

First aerial bombing raid in history took place in 1849 during Austria's siege of Venice. Austrians released hot air balloons, each carrying a bomb equipped with automatic release.

New Scandal Erupts

Chicago Oct. 12 (AP)—A new scandal erupted in the Bank of Elmwood Park last night a few hours after its chairman, Dwight H. Green, testified before a Senate committee investigating the bank's relationship to the Orville E. Hodge swindle. The FBI said its agents had seized the head teller of the bank on a charge of embezzling $26,600 of the institution's funds. He was identified as Chester Joseph Biegalski, 46, head teller at the bank since it was reorganized after being closed by then-state auditor Hodge in 1953. Donald Hostetter, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said Biegalski told authorities he embezzled the money over the last three years. Hostetter said the shortage was discovered by another employee who relieved Biegalski last Saturday when he started a vacation.

CLU Honor Given To President of Insurance Firm

HERMAN J. EATON
The first Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) designation to be given to a local insurance man was presented to Herman J. Eaton, president of Herman J. Eaton Insurance, 42 Main street, during the recent national conference exercises of the American College of Life Underwriters in Washington, D. C. Eaton was one of 426 life insurance underwriters throughout the nation who was granted the honor.

He resides at 387 Albany avenue with his wife, mother and two children.

Will Get Diploma
The local insurance agency president will receive his diploma Friday afternoon, Oct. 19, during the regular monthly meeting of the Albany Life Underwriters Association, of which he is a member.

Presentation of the CLU key was made to Eaton by George D. Covell, CLU agency vice-president of the Berkshire Life Insurance Co., Washington, immediately following the conference. Since the establishment of the American College in 1927, a total of 6,179 CLU designations have been conferred on candidates who are examined on the fundamentals of life insurance and annuity contracts, economics, family and business finance, taxation, trusts, law, business life insurance, accident and sickness insurance, group insurance and pension plans.

Long Preparation
Most candidates for the CLU designations take at least three or four years to complete their preparatory studies and pass the five examinations. ## Fire Police Sign 5 New Members

Five new members were accepted in the Fire Police Association of Ulster County Wednesday evening at the October meeting, held at Tillson where the Association was guest of the Tillson Fire Company.

John Ludlow, Ellenville, president of the Association, presided over the meeting at which over 50 members were present. The five members accepted were George Segelken and Joel Woolsey of Tillson, Kenneth Dimsey of Walker Valley, Albert Fleischer of St. Remy and William Reed of Glenford. The Association now has a membership of 186.

Ernest Alberg of New Paltz, chairman of the committee named to discuss a "family picnic" reported plans were under way for a picnic next spring. The plan had been undertaken too late in the fall for a picnic this year, he reported.

Secretary Arthur Rice of Glenford referred to the matter of a permanent emblem to be displayed on cars of fire police members. The matter of which type to be purchased was discussed and final action left to a decision of the next meeting.

Display of blue lights on cars of firemen was also discussed and several other matters were brought before the meeting.

Debate Challenge Given by Glusker

A challenge to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R) to "debate the issues" is contained in a telegram dispatched by his Democratic opponent, Mayor Eugene Glusker of Ellenville, following a rally Wednesday night at the Wawarsing Town Hall.

The telegram reads as follows: "Instead of bickering back and forth in our respective speeches I hereby invite you to debate the issues on a state level. You name the time and place."

A copy of the telegram was also sent to The Freeman.

An overflow crowd attended the Democratic rally sponsored by Town of Wawarsing Democrats at the hall, 108 Canal street, Ellenville.

Mayor Glusker spoke on issues at the state level and Attorney Robert V. Stapleton on issues at the national level.

The mayor pointed out that it was the first time a resident of the town of Wawarsing had been a candidate for state office. He took his opponent to task on his record and praised Governor Harriman's comprehensive program as outlined to the state legislature. He also praised the governor's budget message.

Mayor Glusker called attention to the importance of electing Democrats to the legislature, thus bringing Democratic objectives "closer to fruition."

He and Mr. Stapleton urged voters to go to the polls without fail.

Mr. Stapleton told the meeting that Democratic candidates at the national level were able and outstanding men with splendid records, men who represented the finest principles in the Democratic tradition.

Violence Again Flares

Portsmouth, Ohio, Oct. 12 (AP)—Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co., tied up in a lengthy and violence-marked strike, said a crowd of "about 500 persons" demonstrated against company installations in this southern Ohio city last night. The company said six trucks were burned. Police Chief Hugh Rudy said one company truck was burned and windows were broken in a two-story brick building housing the company's automatic exchange in the heart of Portsmouth.

The two singers announced yesterday that they and Sinatra's personal manager, Hank Sanicola, are the owners of the Saga Music Publishing Co., which Sanicola will operate. Sinatra and Fisher said that their first venture will be publishing the score from "Bride of Joy," a new RKO production starring Fisher and his wife, Debbie Reynolds.

Six Rebels Slain

Algiers, Algeria, Oct. 12 (AP)—French and uniformed rebel troops clashed a few miles from Algiers today on an estate where a secret rebel hospital was discovered yesterday. The French said six rebels were killed, while French losses were put at one killed and two wounded. The hospital was located in a villa near Fort de l'Eau, owned by a wealthy Moslem industrialist with sympathies for the rebels' national liberation front. Semi-official French sources said a rebel guard opened fire on French troops when they approached yesterday. The French returned the fire and "destroyed" the hospital. These reports said. Two of the rebels killed were wearing pajamas and apparently had been patients.

Marilyn Causes Near Riot at Opening of Play

London, Oct. 12 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, in a dress as close fitting as a coat of paint, turned the London opening of her husband's latest play into a near riot last night.

Crowds outside the Comedy Theatre burst through police lines, pushing aside critics and first nighters in evening dress like ten pins, as Marilyn and her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, arrived with their party.

Plenty to See

They poured through the doors into the foyer of the theatre for a closer and better look.

There was plenty to see—of Marilyn.

The famous shape was encased in an off-the-shoulder scarlet satin sheath, as tight as a glove down to a sudden flare at the knee.

"How does she manage to walk?" was the big question. But she did—and very nicely.

Maroon Rules Slight Favorite Over Poughkeepsie Saturday

It's KHS Running Against Pioneer Aerials at Dietz

By SAM ANZELONE (Freeman Sports Staff)

It always makes for interesting action when undefeated teams clash, but when the unbeaten involved are those old arch enemies, Kingston High School and Poughkeepsie High, something special is in the works.

That little extra will be on display Saturday at Dietz Stadium when the two ancient rivals renew their long DUSO League football feud. Starting time is 2:15 p. m.

The contest will mean a little more than just a spirited battle among the traditional foes and the pride that victory brings. At stake will be undisputed possession of first place and a stepping stone to the league championship. Events later on may prove that the tussle was the race decider.

The Pioneers are, of course, current possessors of the crown and would like nothing better than having the situation remain status quo come the end of the season. Kingston's last outright title was in 1950, although it shared the '54 crown with Middletown.

Nine Game Streak

Poughkeepsie's unbeaten streak is nine games and extends from the '56 campaign when it won all six starts. This year, the Blues toppled Beacon 26-7 and the Middies, 13-6, and tied Port Jervis 7-7.

As for the Maroons, they have a modest three-game skunk working. It's really a four-game streak if last year's win over Newburgh in the finale is counted. But for this season, Kingston has disposed of Christian Brothers Academy, 26-18, Port, 6-0, and NYMA, 20-13.

Comparative scores give the Maroons a slim edge, but in a game such as this past performance can all but be forgotten. But for the sake of selecting a favorite, Kingston must be touted as a one touchdown choice on the strength of comparative efforts against Port.

Both Port engagements were close affairs, as the final scores indicate. Poughkeepsie was lifted from the brink of disaster by a 52-yard scoring pass in the final half minute of play. That eliminated Port's chances for the title, especially after it was deflated a week before by KHS.

Another Johnson Boy

The tying pass was thrown by Deke Johnson, brother to Charlie who haunted DUSO rivals for the past few seasons. From all reports, Deke is cut from the same football mold as his fabulous brother and is the boy the Pioneers are pinning their hopes on.

Deke and the rest of his backfield playmates, Ronnie Levine, Butch Lenehan and John Gancel, are in their first year as regulars. In fact, with the exception of tackle Joe Rock and guard Nick Fanatico, the Pioneers are a relatively inexperienced bunch.

Coach Sam J. Kalloch, as usual has brought his squad along nicely until now they are a formidable combination. Further reports from the Bridge City indicate that the aggregation has progressed with leaps and bounds since the outset of practice.

Kalloch is expected to unveil a deadly passing attack. The entire backfield has been groomed for an overhead blitz with Johnson and quarterback Levine the top trigger men. Ronnie Dorsey and Ronnie Jones, ends, are sure to be on the receiving side of the aerials. Both are a rangy 6'3" and 150 pounds.

Boast Solid Line

Rock is the bulwark of the forward wall and the biggest Pioneer at 205 pounds. The opposite tackle will be Dick Fitzgerald, a 185 pound sophomore.

Fanatico weighs 165 and will be teamed up with Ted Detmer at the guards. Detmer is a bigger 190 and a senior.

At center and leading the line-backers will be Chuck Daniels. He is also a senior and scales 175.

Kingston will undoubtedly rely on its strong ground attack that has scored all but one of its eight touchdowns so far. Coach Bill Burke has experimented very little with his air game probably because he has got the jump in every game and hasn't had to risk gambling with passes.

But most important is the fact that he is blessed with a collection of powerhouse runners. Larry Johnson, Bob Smith, Bill Cragan and Hobbie Armstrong are all swift and strong operators who make the attack click.

Burke plans no changes in his starting lineup. His backfield will consist of Smith and Johnson at halfbacks, Cragan at fullback and Joe White at quarterback.

The line, which has been tremendous all along, stays the same with ends Marv Engle and Bill Chase, tackles Fran Janeczek and Lee Kias, guards George Stephano and Marv Shaub and center Pete Blanshan.

FYL Team Guest Of Kiwanis Club

Members of the Kiwanis team of the past season's Fraternal Youth League were guests of the local Kiwanis Club at the noon luncheon Thursday.

Introduced by Kiwanian James F. Gilpatrick, manager of the team for the season, each player was presented to the club, along with a brief history of his performance with the team.

The Kiwanis team finished second in the league standings, according to Manager Gilpatrick. The 15-year-old members of the team, who because of league rules can no longer participate, were offered the appreciation of the club for their services during the past three years.

State Reminds On Gun Hours

Albany, Oct. 12 (P)—The State Conservation Department has issued a reminder to hunters on the daily gunning hours during the small game season which opens Monday throughout most of the state.

The department said yesterday the season would get underway legally Monday at 10 a. m. (EDT). Closing hour Monday will be 6 p. m.

Daily gunning hours thereafter will be 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. as long as Daylight Saving Time remains in effect. When the state returns to Standard Time Oct. 28, the small game hunting hours will be 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. Standard Time.

On Monday, Oct. 22 the upland game season will get underway in the 12 Lake Plains counties in western New York. The same hours and subsequent adjustments for Standard time will prevail.

Scott Frost Cops $30,000 Gotham

Yonkers, Oct. 12 (P)—Scott Frost, one of the great trotters in the history of harness racing, bade his 1956 farewell to the east last night with a performance that outclassed 10 rivals in the $30,000 Gotham Trot.

The west coast flyer, owned by Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif., turned on the jets in the final three-sixteenths of a mile at Yonkers Raceway and scampered home an easy winner.

It was the 16th straight victory this year for the son of Hot Mon, winner of the 1947 Hambletonian—a race Scott Frost himself copied a year ago.

Set Waiting Pace

Canadian Joe O'Brien, driving a waiting race, remained well back of the pace until the last half-mile of the 3-trip spin on the half-mile oval.

Lady's First, owned by the Ohio Valley Stables, Hamilton, Ohio, had taken the lead after the first mile of the 1 1/2 mile event, but Scott Frost whizzed by her as if she were standing still.

Scott Frost zoomed around the final bend, putting the chiller on everyone except his many backers in the crowd of 18,476, and slammed over the finish 3 1/2 lengths ahead of Lady First. He paid $2.90 for $2.

Saugerties Club Will Release 45 Male Pheasants

Members of Saugerties Fish and Game Club will release 45 male pheasants Saturday in the Saugerties area, according to Frank C. Sloboda, secretary.

These birds will be the last of a lot of 200 which were raised by the club this year.

Members participating in the program will meet at the Beers Farm on Route 32, Saxton at 9:30 a. m.

Also to be released Saturday are birds from the State Conservation Department. Members participating in this release program will meet Game Protector James Overbaugh at the Saugerties Thruway interchange at 8:30 a. m.

Last week a sampling of the 200 birds was banded by Robert G. Ohlman, district game manager of the Poughkeepsie office of the State Conservation Department.

The club has requested all area sportsmen to report either to the club or to the Conservation Department any banded birds taken. The season opens Monday at 10 a. m.

St. Mary's, KPBA Cop Shuffle Tests

St. Mary's Society edged the Veterans of Foreign Wars, 4-3, and Kingston Power Boat Association edged the Elks Lodge by the same margin in Inter-Fraternal shuffleboard league matches.

Jay Fiore and Joe Amato doubled for 28 points and Fiore had 20 in individual shooting for St. Mary's.

High scorers in the KPBA-Elks match were Larry Wella-Frank Flicker with 26 points, and James Emmick-Vern Radel with 27.

The Beaver has the swimming power more highly developed in his hind feet than has any other quadruped.

Great Nashua In Final Race

New York, Oct. 12 (P)—Nashua races for the last time tomorrow in the Jockey Club Gold Cup while Bold Ruler, Nashville and other youngsters do battle in the Futurity.

Thirteen of the so-called weaker sex will help sort out a 1955 champion in the fillies and mares division in the 86th running of the $50,000 Ladies Handicap, a tough mile and one half event that headlines the Columbus Day program. Top weight under 126 pounds is Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Searching, while Manotick, the 1955 winner, and the 3-year-old star, Levee, each have 120.

Nashua, who won the 1954 Futurity, copped the Gold Cup last fall, and goes into his finale as the world's leading money winner with $1,251,965.

Other finishers: Johnson, Voerg, Fast, Hansen, Stokes, Elliott, Freleigh, Breen, B. Bratton, C. Bratton, all of Saugerties.

Formosts Risk League Lead in Saturday Match

Winging at an 11-1 pace in the first four weeks of play, Formosts risk their Hudson Valley League lead against Channel Master of Ellenville in the feature HVBL weekend clash, Saturday at Ferraro's Bowldrome.

The former champions are in second place, tied with Jones Dairy with 9 wins and 3 losses.

The Dairy men play at Poughkeepsie Inn (4-8), while GI Joe's Express goes cross town to battle Tony's Pizzeria. Both teams boast a 7-5 record.

Broskie Leads Loop Harold Broskie, the Tony Pizzeria veteran, slipped from a 214 rating last week, but his 205-1 mark gives him a four-point bulge over Frank Greco of Ellenville in the individual average race. Broskie also owns both individual records of 268 and 684. Middletown Merchants' 1133 and 3172 top the team division.

Oklahoma Seeks 33rd Straight Against Texas

By MIKE RATHER
The Associated Press

Oklahoma's Sooners expect to make it official tomorrow. Bud Wilkinson's lads went out and lashed Kansas State 66-0 last week to apparently snap their own major college record for consecutive wins—making the Wildcats their 32nd straight victim. But the NCAA Service Bureau yesterday came up with a new wrinkle and decided that Pittsburgh held the previous record from 1914-1919 by accumulating 33. The Sooners—not cocky, but confident with very good reason—should have little trouble equalling the Panthers' record against Texas.

Oklahoma, rated the No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, ironically gets an opportunity to tie the mark against the same team it defeated to start its string. In 1953, the Sooners overcame the stubborn Longhorns 19-14.

Spartans Seek Third
The nation's second-ranked team, the Spartans from Michigan State, go after their third in a row Saturday, meeting Indiana which bowed to Notre Dame last week. The Spartans will be minus the services of their rugged half-back Walt Kowalczyk, who has an ailing ankle. In the only major action to-night, Miami, straining to hop in to the nation's top ten teams, meets a weakened Maryland squad.

Saturday all the top teams except Southern California, see action. Georgia Tech, No. 3 on the basis of two tough wins—Kentucky 14-6 and Southern Methodist 9-7—will display its potent offense against Louisiana State. For the first time this season quarterback Wade Mitchell and

UCAL Banquet Set Monday

Ulster County Athletic League will hold its annual fall banquet, Monday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Representatives from the seven schools comprising the league membership are expected to attend the event. The schools are: Highland, Kerhonkson, Marlboro, New Paltz, Onteora, Saugerties and Wallkill.

A business meeting will follow the dinner.

Calhoun Meets John L. Sullivan

Cleveland, Oct. 12 (AP)—Both Rory Calhoun and John L. Sullivan, who fight in a middle-weight 10-rounder at the Arena here tonight, hope to get Joey Giardello, as next opponent.

Giardello, who hasn't yet been committed to meet tonight's winner, will be on hand to watch Sullivan, veteran from England, swap punches with the 22-year-old Calhoun, an Atlanta minister's son now fighting out of White Plains, N. Y.

The fight will be broadcast and telecast nationally by NBC and starts at 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Currently rated No. 6 contender, Calhoun had a string of 23 victories including 12 knockouts, when Spider Webb won a split decision from him last August.

Sullivan has done more than three times as much professional fighting as Calhoun and has 35 knockouts among his 66 victories. He fought three draws and lost 20. Sullivan is expected to have a weight advantage of perhaps as much as six pounds.

Western Open Leaders Hit 68

San Francisco, Oct. 12 (AP)—A tightly bunched field of tournament veterans took out today after a pair of relatively obscure 68 shooters in the second round of the Western Open golf tournament.

Defending champion Cary Middlecott shot a two-under-par 70 in his opening round to stay within easy reach of front running Bill Casper, a pro, and amateur Johnny McMullin. Casper and McMullin are Californians.

Pro Don January had a 69 while other 70 shooters were George Bayer, Grossingers, N. Y., Jay Hebert, amateur Ed Castagnetto, Mike Souchak, Ron Nicol, and Lloyd Mangrum.

E. P. (Dutch) Harrison and Mike Fetchick, Mahopac, N. Y., were among the 71 shooters.

Locals Assigned To Burlington of Three-Eye League

Chicago Cubs of the National League have announced the signing of two topnotch former Kingston High School players—catcher Ronnie Ashdown, and left handed pitcher, Bob Maines.

The Cubs made the an-

BOB MAINES

nouncement in Chicago yesterday.

No terms of the signing were revealed and it is not known if either or both of the local baseball stars received a bonus.

The Cubs signed Maines and Ashdown to contracts and assigned them to the Burlington, Iowa club of the Class B Three-I League. They will report to the Cubs' spring training camp for later assignment to the Chicago minor league training station next March.

RONNIE ASHDOWN

Maines and Ashdown accepted the Chicago offer after having tried out with several major league teams, including all three Metropolitan teams—the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers.

Maines pitched effectively

The jibes of calloused Yankee rooters, luxuriating in their World Series triumph, cascaded ridicule, torment and abuse on the saddened Dodger faithful.

Jake Senor, the poor man's Toots Shor, set the tempo for the raucous aftermath of the Yankees' 9-0 crusher with a warning to the unhappy losers.

"Don't be surprised if the next baseball score you hear is Tokyo 9, Brooklyn 8."

Another Yankee joker explained Don Newcombe's mysterious absence with:

"He probably stopped off at Yankee headquarters to pick up his check. He and Yogi Berra were the most valuable Yankees in the Series."

A friend who should know better phoned from IBM during a lunch break to inquire:

"Did Newcombe hang himself?"

At that very moment a large and contrite Newcombe, no choke artist, and still one of the finest pitchers in the modern era, was winging skyward toward the blue Pacific, far away from parking lot attendants and the lethal bat of Yogi Berra.

What's all the shouting about? So Newcombe got clobbered a couple times. Without Newcombe's 27 victories the Dodgers would have attended the World Series by TV. Somewhere along the line, some of Big Don's victories must have been achieved in "big games."

They tagged Bob Feller, the finest pitcher of modern times, with the same libel. He never won the big one, they said. Didn't an unknown by the name of Floyd Giebel beat him 1-0 in a showdown game between Detroit and Cleveland? Didn't Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves 'clobber' him 1-0 in that highly disputed series game when Phil Masi was-or wasn't picked off second base?

Yet this same Feller set major league records with 348 strikeouts in 1948 and fanned 18 Tigers in 1938. And but for four years in service, at the peak of his greatness, would have won nearly 350 American League games.

There is ample precedent for Newcombe's choke job, if you will. Ty Cobb, the immortal Georgia Peach, who led all the ages of baseball with a lifetime batting mark of .367, and once averaged .383 for a string of 11 straight years, batted .200 and .231 in two World Series.

Is Ted Williams referred to as a "choke guy" when he bats less than .200 against Yankee pitching for a full season? Isn't he the same fellow who came off a great American League campaign to fold against the St. Louis Cardinals' Harry (The Cat) Breechen. Dolf Camilli led the National League in homers and RBIs in 1941 but Yankee pitchers shackled him with one RBI and no homers in the series that fall.

Rogers Hornsby ranked second to Cobb with a lifetime batting average of .358 over 23 seasons. His World Series average? Exactly .338.

When Willie Mays led the National League with a .354 average in 1954 what was his World Series mark? It was .286 against Bob Lemon and company. That was the same year Bobby Avila led the American League with .341 and batted a robust .188 against Giant pitchers.

Joe DiMaggio had his ups and downs in World Series competition. 100. Check the record books and you'll find that only Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the truly great ones were consistent stick-outs in the fall hysteria. What happened to Newcombe has happened to many of the greats over the years.

We picked the Yankees in six games, wouldn't have given a dime for their chances after the second game when Ruth Gehrig and Pennock must have rolled over in their graves as the Bombers blew a 6-0 lead.

Reduced to its simplest form, the result of World Series proved that there is no deadlier combination than class pitching and the long ball. It has been a Yankee trademark over the years and it strangled the Dodgers when the blue chips were down.

Don Larsen will be remembered through all the ages of baseball, but the one guy the Dodgers will never forget is Yogi Berra. In pre-series estimates of the Yankees, they boasted they could pitch to Mantle but feared the gnome-like character who squats behind home plate for the Yankees. Yogi didn't fail them. National League adherents will tell you that Jackie Robinson is the greatest clutch hitter in baseball. We'll take Yogi.

for the Kingston Colonials of the New York-New Jersey League and in the City Baseball League until stymied by arm trouble in mid-season. He made a complete recovery and impressed the Chicago scouts.

Ashdown's signing as a catcher by the Cubs settles, once and for all, his future as a player. He had shunted between catching and the outfield for the past couple years.

Hak! Kaf! Maj. Hoople picks Maroon Over Pioneers, 13-6

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(BLOCKER FOR GRANGE)

EGAD! Now that the World Series is history, your old football prognosticator can settle back and concentrate in earnest on the pigskin sport.

Even with our mind on Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field,

The Old Boy Himself

we hit on four correct games out of six on the schoolboy predictions last weekend. We muffed one and had a tie so the record was the same as the weekend before.

This week's picks:
Kingston over Poughkeepsie in the weekend headline. The Maroons have their hearts set on a Duso championship, but Poughkeepsie is their No. 1 stumbling block. Coach Bill Burke and his boys have made us look good three weeks running so hail to the Maroons!

Saugerties to trip Liberty. The Sawyers want the victory to sew up the West Shore League title. With George Neher hotter than a prairie fire out of control, it looks like SHS all the way.

Highland to take Clarkstown. The Highlanders are smarting from successive losses at the hands of Mt. Kisco and Saugerties. Look for them to roll up the score against the Rams who are in their first year of football.

Goldbacks Lose Again

Nott Terrace by a tick over Newburgh. The Goldbacks took an unmerciful 38-0 pasting from powerful Mont Pleasant of Schenectady and are in for another rough afternoon against the Warriors' cross-city rivals.

Pawling over New Paltz. The Huguenots may pull this one out, but we see a close victory for the Dutchess county school.

Port Jervis in front of NYMA. The deflated Red Raiders are steaming mad after coming away empty-handed in DUSO starts two weeks running. A victory will restore their dignity, but it will come hard from the talent-packed Cadets.

Now for the scores:
Kingston 13, Poughkeepsie 6.
Saugerties 27, Liberty 6.
Highland 26, Clarkstown 0.
Nott Terrace 19, Newburgh 6.
Port Jervis 13, NYMA 7.

Dukes Finished

Newark, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP)—Walter Dukes, the 7-ft. New York Knickerbocker's basketball star is through as a member of the National Basketball Assn. Club because of his "attitude," Coach Vince Boryla told newsmen Herb Jaffe of the Newark Star-Ledger last night.

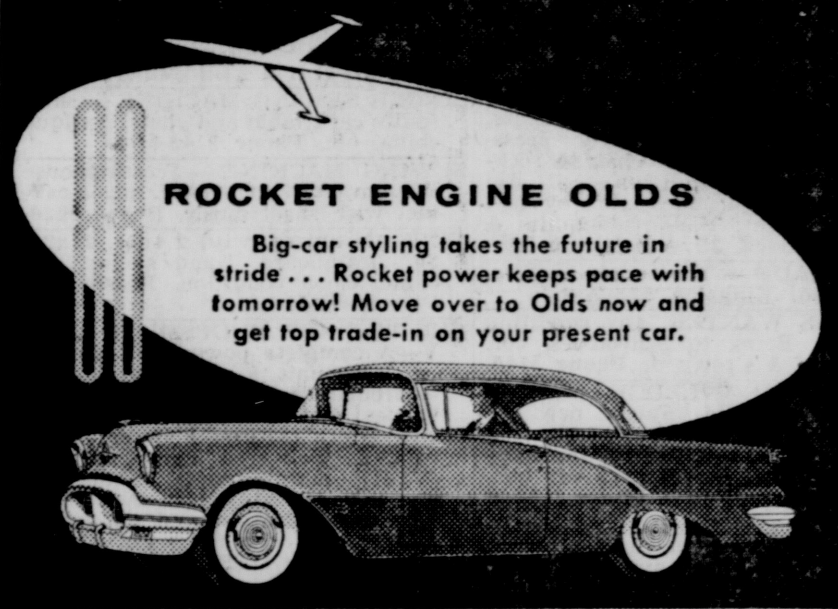

Paris, France, was a small fishing village called Lutetia in Roman times.

Justices Dig Out Hard Questions For DA Speaker

Speaking before the second session of the justices of the peace school last evening at the Chambers school, District Attorney Howard C. St. John encountered some real thought provoking questions. He spoke on "Information and Jurisdiction of Justices' Court" and after the lecture a question period was held.

St. John said some of the questions asked were "real difficult" and indicated the justices of the county are "quite familiar" with some of the sections of the law and that it was necessary to "dig down" to answer some of them. "Some of the justices have been reading up on the book," he said. There were 25 justices present with Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster acting as principal of the school.
